

Some Social Media Tips

- Please include a link to episode one! Do not trust people to google it on their own
- The more places you want to share, the better. (You're under no obligation, we won't give you less lines if you don't promote it or anything like that, but we'd really appreciate it)
- Using images is a good way to make your post more captivating and attention-grabbing.
- Hashtags are your friend. Try tags like #station arcadia #arcpod #podcast #podrec #audio drama
- If you have the time and energy, customize/remix the posts below to be a bit more personal! Talk about your role in the production, or your feelings on episode one. (as long as they're positive lmaoo)
  - The purpose of this press package is to make things easier on you, not to restrict what you post! Feel free to ignore this completely if you have other ideas.

Long:

Welcome, Anyone.

Station Arcadia is an audio drama set in a dystopian world where dieselpunk, steampunk, cyberpunk and solarpunk societies exist side by side. Each episode is a radio broadcast from Station Arcadia - a radio tower on a shifting island. The narrator, a nonbinary lesbian named Kass, broadcasts diverse stories from across the land that together, tell the story of a revolution, and hope in the face of a dying world. Interspersed throughout these broadcasts is live audio footage that focuses on four different protagonists - one for each society. As the world unfolds over the course of the broadcasts, these four characters embrace challenges, make mistakes, and find ways to change their worlds. The show features primarily queer characters, and characters with diverse backgrounds, abilities, and experiences.

Episode one, By The Wayside, follows a technology scavenger from the cyberpunk society of Talsoria. You also meet 16 year old revolutionary enthusiast Memorie, and listen as fae have an odd encounter.
