

Welcome anyone! This is one of our unfinished episodes. This is just an outline, we have little else written for this episode. Here, you get to see our writer's stream of thought, so please be kind and remember that what you see in the final product is never a first draft!

With that, please enjoy!

EPISODE 25 - THE RAT GOD OF DEADLINE

● "The Rat God of Deadline"

- Deadline, Talsoria. Quickpitch: a mad scientist type breeds super engineered rats to wreck havoc on deadline. things get a bit out of hand
- Lives underground and breeds thousands of rats. Releases many into the city at various locations. It is a reminder to all who see them that the city is not pristine and perfect, and things are not as good as they seem. The city is not well equipped to deal with biological creatures. Anything mechanical, they could find ways to track, get rid of in one blow, and neutralize. They could study the parts and trace them back. Rats... are harder.
 - The rats are various sizes - some can slip through tiny cracks. some are large and terrifying. Most have patterns in their fur to make them harder to detect on cameras, to confuse the cameras. (Genetic engineering!) They are super strong, resilient, and can and WILL climb.
 - They are also HUNGRY because real food is scarce in talsoria
 - And they have no fear of people. many will actively approach people.
- also. I think TRG steals corpses before the corpos can burn them and feeds them to the rats??
- she has also trained the rats to come to her at the sound of a specific whistle tone. she carries an emergency extra loud one that will summon all the rats in a LARGE area

Backstory to imply:

- TRG is a former member of the revolution in the Nexus, but got out. Another member of the revolution faked TRG's death in the system by hacking the records (same time as Nikki!), so has no legal handle and is entirely "off the grid". Uses no common name either - only their revolution alias. Either the rat king/queen/god. (They're genderfluid).
- Used to work for the government doing chemical/medical/drug creation and testing. Is a mad genius. Did some really bad things. Was a double agent for a bit before quitting it to do revolution fulltime. Invented a lot of crazy shit that can come in handy later. Then later moved to Deadline
